

Call for Preliminary Proposals

Population, Reproductive Health, and Economic Development "PopDev"

The impacts of reproductive health and population dynamics on poverty and economic growth.

This call is a joint initiative of the Economic and Social Research Council (ESRC, UK), NWO-WOTRO Science for Global Development (the Netherlands, NL), the Research Council of Norway (RCN) and the Population Reference Bureau (PRB, USA) in collaboration with the William and Flora Hewlett Foundation (Hewlett, USA).

The call is a follow-up to previous calls of the joint schemes that NWO-WOTRO, ESRC and RCN have developed separately and co-funded with the Hewlett Foundation.

The current call focuses on:

1. The impact of reproductive health on women's economic empowerment, particularly as measured by economic outcomes at the household and individual levels.
2. Relationships between reproductive health/family planning (including population policies and dynamics) and macroeconomic outcomes in countries.
