Matchmaking sessions

Pitch and match in April!

This month, NWO issued the new call for proposals for the Responsible Innovation Programme. Applications for research projects can be submitted by consortia composed of researchers from the humanities, the field of science and technology, and social sciences, and at least one private partner. Starting this April, a series of matchmaking sessions will be held to provide interested parties with the opportunity to meet potential consortium partners. Participants of the meetings will also receive more information about the possibilities for funding and details on how to apply.

Four matchmaking sessions will be held:

- › A matchmaking for the Economic Priority Area Chemistry: on Monday afternoon 7 April; the location will be announced soon
- › A combined matchmaking for the Economic Priority Areas Water and Agri&Food/Horticulture & Starting Materials: on Tuesday afternoon 8 April in Utrecht
- › A matchmaking for the Economic Priority Area Energy: on Wednesday afternoon 9 April in Utrecht
- › A combined matchmaking for the Economic Priority Areas Life Sciences and Health and High Tech Systems and Materials: on Friday afternoon 11 April in The Hague
