Six projects granted in Cooperation Indonesia - The Netherlands research programme

The Indonesian Ministry of Research, Technology and Higher Education (RISTEKDIKTI) and the Netherlands Organisation for Scientific Research (NWO) granted six joint research projects that focus on food, water and rule of law. A long term scientific collaboration exists between Indonesia and The Netherlands which is further strengthened in this new collaboration to address scientific and societal issues of interest to both countries.

Read further >

A Knowledge Facilitator for the SRHR research programme

The Sexual and Reproductive Health and Rights (SRHR) research programme of NWO-WOTRO Science for Global Development is seeking a knowledge facilitator (may also be a team). The contribution of the knowledge facilitator is to boost the outreach of the programme as a whole and to maximise the opportunity for knowledge sharing of the twelve SRHR research projects. The deadline for application is 14 January 2019.

Read further >
Seven applied projects on legitimate stability awarded

NWO-WOTRO Science for Global Development awarded seven projects in the sixth call for applied proposals of the Security and Rule of Law research programme. The theme of this call was 'The political dilemma of legitimate stability'.

Read further >

Insights in managing interventions on climate change

Conflict and cooperation are not two ends of a continuum. A thematic brief considers these dynamics in relation to climate change interventions. This is just one of the results from our CCMCC research programme on the management of conflicts and cooperation in climate change.

See all CCMCC output >

NWO-WOTRO Science for Global Development

NWO-WOTRO programmes, funds and monitors innovative research on global issues, with a focus on sustainable development and poverty reduction.

Contact

Follow NWO-WOTRO on Twitter.
Go to our website
© 2018 NWO
Disclaimer